The nature of its composition renders it the best of the invigorants. It consists of the medicinal principles of Roots, Herbs, and Barks, that have been for centuries in use as Medicines, and which, by their mild, anti-narcotic, aperient, and alterative properties, have acquired the just confidence of the people. It controls the impurities of the blood, and thus prevents the formation of humors in the stomach, bowels, kidneys, and bladder, which are the source of half the diseases that afflict mankind.

The best advice that can be given to any one is to use the diligent, preliminary use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and thereby avoid the necessity of subsequent suffering. Its use is recommended and sanctioned by the faculty and by the clergy.

In the factory at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, a corps of inspectors are employed to examine the quality of the materials used in the manufacture of this medicine, and a test of the quality of every package of it, is rigorously practiced. Several of the most eminent chemists which form the staff of the House are employed to analyze the medicine before it is received into the manufacturing department, and every box and class of the medicine is subjected to a rigid examination before the proprietors will recognize it as genuine. Such is the enormous capacity of the family to which the Bitters are prepared that the proprietors are

Keep a large stock on hand, and to supply Druggists and foreign markets with such promptness as never to disappoint any one. Under the very best facilities for manufacturing, and the largest supply of the raw materials, by which to make the best bitters possible, the proprietors have been exposed to ireland, and large quantities of the most destructive counterfeits and imitations.

Last Friday night two children of Solomon Gessler, of Fulton County, were drowned in the Illinois and Michigan Canal. Mrs. Gessler, with the children, had been visiting friends on the canal, and on their return home, while the mother followed on foot. While crossing the bridge over the canal the horses became frightened, ran down the bank into the river and swam around to the east of the bridge, and then ran down the towpath. The mother, on their arrival, found the children drowned. The bodies were recovered.

The Chicago proceeds from a lack of vigor in the digestive organs, and from VITALIZING PREPARATION will restore them to a healthy condition. If the gastric apparatus is in good working order and can perfectly digest the food ordinarily eaten, the blood will be well nourished, and the system will be in a healthy condition. This HOSTETTER'S BITTERS supplies the requisite stimulus, and thus enables the digestive organs to perform their functions. Since the war, Mr. Osborn has been engaged in manufacturing machinery for the manufacture of sorghum, and has devoted much attention to the subject. He says the introduction of Yankee machinery and improved methods of manufacture will enable the producer to realize a profit of at least $100 per acre. He says that the cane can be grown in any part of the United States, and that the sugar can be manufactured for 3 cents per pound. CURIOUS AND REVOLTING CASE.

A Student of Divinity Who Sold Young Women to a Brothel.

[From the Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat.]

Thursday, as Deputies Rogers was out in search of Judge Lee's stolen horse, he was informed of a case of prostitution kept by Ann Eliza Dimond, at the corner of Main and Mt. Hope avenues. Suspicions of one of the inmates, whom he determined to take into custody. She was taken to the Station House, but on being informed who sold the girl to the keeper of the house, she was released. Subsequently Chandler H. Willard E. Mead, a clerk in Pratt's clothing store, Buffalo street, and a southern resident, began to call upon the girl; but she was soon warned against him, and went with him to Auburn. He followed them, and they were arrested and sent to the Penitentiary for drunkenness. During his incarceration he sold her things and pocketed the money. She resolved her and sent her to the Public Charities Bureau, 20 Gold street, as a boarder. She had previously made the acquaintance of a married man who is engaged in a public office, whose name we are strongly tempted to publish, and this man induced her to carry on a sort of intrigue with her from the street, by means of epistles. The girl Calvin detected the affair, and after trying in vain to locate it up, dismissed her from the school. This occurred two weeks ago.

Mead then obtained a boarding place for his daughter, at the corner of Buffalo and Sophia streets. When the latter was seen on Sunday evening, when he called upon her and got in his carriage, and drove off. Mead is fully satisfied that she was of a very corrupt mind, and he would advise her to be taken home, and be watched closely for the present, and he said he would be a brother. He told her that if she would go home with him and see if the women who kept it would take her. She assented, and he accompanied her to the house on Broadway street, where she was found by Detective Rogers. Mead is a son of Rev. Dr. Mead, of Auburn, and is related to the girl. The latter is a daughter of Rev. Luther Peck, of Auburn. Mead is married and has lived in the house, in the same manner and upon the same terms as the other girls. Mead called to see her once or twice.

The unfortunate girl, the most robust in appearance of the inmates of the house of ill-fame, did tell Detective Rogers that she was 16 years old, and her name was Mattie Calvin. Her good looking, and seems to be intelligent, strongly enough, she has conceived a strong liking for the inmate of the house, as her father evidently has, and save the means to enable him to do it.

Mead was brought to the Station House to be confined half hour after the arrest, and did not pretend to deny the truth of her story. As there seemed to be no charge upon which she could be detained, he was permitted to leave. Last evening Police Commissioner Howe and Detective Rogers had another with her, and finding her determined to persist in evil ways, locked her up for detention until this morning. She will be arraigned before the Police Justice as a common prostitute, and will be dealt with as such, unless the change her mind and promises to reform.

DREADFUL ACCIDENT.

Three Children Burned to Death and their Father and Brother Seriously Burned.

[From the Peoria Transcript, 17th inst.]

On Monday night a dreadful and fatal accident occurred in the family of Thos. Adler, sister of Rev Rud Miller, and seven from Peoria, between Jefferson and Monroe, in Lickapee Creek. Mr. Geo. Schuler, whose name is familiar not to ourselves, was engaged in butchering, and in the evening gathered up a quantity of meat having not yet been salted, and left it in the kitchen with instructions that it should be salted down. Mrs. Adler, who is a young woman starting in life, should have understood the simple process of salting meat, but she did not. She had previously made the acquaintance of a married man who is engaged in a public office, whose name we are strongly tempted to publish, and this man induced her to carry on a sort of intrigue with her from the street, by means of epistles.
